

"Stolen Airways" should be the title of a program regarding Sinclair's decisions to broadcast 'Stolen Honors.'

We need a chairman and majority of the FCC who will work to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them.

I plan two actions if Sinclair follows through with this decision. I will watch the program and jot down each advertiser, as each will be implicated by association in this outrage. I will then make sure every person I can possibly reach by e-mail knows who these advertisers were during the show.

Secondly, in the same manner I will fight against Sinclair's licenses renewal with the FCC. We 'little' people may not have much power alone, but many voices together can do quite a bit. The little people are becoming aware of the problems of media consolidation - and the lack of help the FCC has given the public to protect our public airways.

It is the FCC's lack of attention to this matter that does NOT meet my decency standards. As the question of old goes - have you no decency sir?

Thank you.
